DEATHS AND FUNERALS
The funeral of Agnes, wife of Edward Kermode, was held from her late home, 29 Benham avenue, at 3:30 and from St. Augustine's church at 9:30-day. Rev. Father McCormick celebrated a high mass of requiem. The bier was surrounded by many floral tributes. The pall bearers were D. J. O'Connor, Louis Goddard, C. F. Jennings, and John Foster. Burial was at St. Michael's cemetery.

POOR LITTLE WAIFS

An Afternoon With the Woman's Staff of Children's Ward of Bridgeport Hospital.

The third quarterly meeting of the Woman's Staff of the Children's Ward of the Bridgeport Hospital was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. F. A. Strong in North Main street. Reports of the officers were read showing that there were three deaths in the ward during the quarter, 27 patients received, 7 discharged, and 11 remaining. A total of $364.75 was collected in the cradle banks. Miss Margaret Garet Henry of Maryville College, Tenn., the speaker of the afternoon, won the sympathy of her hearers in her cause which is the education of the children in the mountain districts of the Southern states. Miss Henry is herself a native of the district she speaks of and is thereby best fitted to reach the hearts of those who are in a way to help. She explained that a scholarship is but $50 and that there are three million boys and girls to be educated. After the meeting enough for two scholarships was raised by contributions from the ladies present. Miss Henry spoke of the early ancestry of these people and how they differed from the so called "poor white." They are descendants from the Scotch, Irish and Huguenot forefathers of the better class. They are now ignorant and superstitious only because they are isolated from the centers of the world. When given a chance they have proven themselves geniuses and strong mentally and physically. After the meeting the president of the staff, Mrs. J. P. Oman, poured tea in the beautifully appointed dining room, the serving of which was daintily accomplished by several young ladies present.

HELD BANQUET AT CARR'S

A party of members of Court Peguon-nock, P. of A., held a banquet at Carr's grill room in Cannon street last night, in honor of the anniversary of the court. An excellent menu was served and the proceedings were enlivened by speeches by a number of the officers of the court and the guests. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

BUTLER AMES WANTSSENATOR LODGE'S SEAT

(Special from United Press.)
Boston, Feb. 5.—Massachusetts politicians gathered at the legislature here are to-day mightily interested in news from Washington that Representative Butler Ames of Boston has offered himself as candidate for the toga in place of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and announced that he is willing to spend two years of his time, and $100,000 to get the scalp of that grave and reverend statesman. Senator Lodge's term expires in 1911. Whether or not "Young" Mr. Ames, as he is known despite his 48 years, will have the political strength to unhorse Senator Lodge is declared to be a dubious question but he is generally admitted to be an opponent from whom there are things to be feared.

In the first place Mr. Ames is the grand son of General Benjamin F. Butler; he is a graduate of West Point, is an expert mechanical engineer and has built an automobile and an airplane. He is the inventor of an aeroplane in which he has made a number of fairly moving flights.

EX-SENATOR CLARK HURT BY A FALL

London, Feb. 5.—Ex-Senator William A. Clarke of Montana, who was injured in a fall while aboard the Lucania, was so much improved today that it was said he would continue his trip to Paris within a few days. The muscles of his right thigh were badly strained in a fall due to a lurch of the ship, and he is now on crutches.

Make Repeated Trips into Blazing Tenement in Williamsburgh Today.

(Special from United Press.)
New York, Feb. 5.—A blazing tenement in Williamsburgh early this morning produced two policemen heroes, Officers Lott and Hoffman, who on arriving on the scene made repeated trips through the smoke and flames until they had carried to safety eighteen men, women and children. On the last trip down the fire escape, each officer carried two children. Then the flames enveloped the three floors of the building which was destroyed. All occupants were saved, the only one injured being a woman who was thrown from the third story. She is not dangerously hurt.

FAMOUS WOMEN, HER THEME

"Women Who Have Made Themselves Famous" was the subject of the lecture last night at the Public Library by Miss Carrie C. Knapp of New York. The audience was rather large, many of those present remembering Miss Knapp from her illustrated lecture on "Napoleon" two seasons ago and which proved an especially fine one. Miss Knapp used about 100 illustrated views of works accomplished by the work of women. Many pictures of celebrated women were thrown on the canvas and the speaker explained for what particular work each was noted. Miss Knapp dwelt particularly on the work of Angelina Kaufmann, Madame Le Brun and Rosa Bonheur. The speaker noted that despite the drawbacks of laws made by men to keep women under their sway, that the females were becoming more and more intellectual and would eventually be on a par with man. The speaker did not seem to favor the suffrage movement.
